A Short Biography:

“I was born and grew up in a rural village in mid-Western Nepal. Currently, I have been working as a consultant to the United Nations since March 2012. Prior to that until 2008, I worked as an economist at the Central Bank of Nepal (Nepal Rastra Bank) in Kathmandu over a decade, joining in 1997 after completing my Master’s degree in Economics. Later, I did another Master’s degree in Economics and Finance from Curtin University, Australia in 2004 under AusAid Scholarship. Recently, I have received a PhD degree in Economics from The New School University. In addition to my professional career, I also taught economics courses at several colleges in Nepal and worked as a research consultant for Institute for Policy Research and Development (IPRAD) and UN-ESCAP. I have written several articles and research reports on Nepalese economy.” Dr. Prakash Kumar Shrestha
